RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION
MARK SECTION (no change)
ARGUMENT(S)
Applicant hereby responds to the Final Office Action dated September 24, 2013 in connection with this application. In the Final Office Action, the Trademark Attorney refused registration on the grounds that a likelihood of confusion exists pursuant to Section 2(d) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1052(d) with regard to the mark in U.S. Registration No. 2556834. Applicant respectfully traverses the refusal to register based on §2(d) of the Trademark Act and, based on the arguments and new evidence submitted herein, requests reconsideration. Applicant is filing a Notice of Appeal concurrently with this response. Applicant's mark is MEXICO LINDO for "spices". The cited mark is MEXICO LINDO for "tomato sauce". The goods sold by Applicant and Registrant are sufficiently different such that confusion is unlikely. The Trademark Office has already recognized that there is no likelihood of confusion here.

Applicant is the owner of Registration No. 2685887 for “teas, flavored ices, and candies” (the “Prior Registration”). The Prior Registration was issued in February 2003, after the registration for the cited mark issued. Although the Trademark Office initially rejected registration of the Prior Registration on 2(d) grounds, it later withdrew its refusal after Applicant cited cases showing that “teas, flavored ices, and candies” and “tomato sauce” are not marketed in such a way that they are likely to be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source. That same reasoning applies here.

In fact, to the extent any goods are related, it is spices and teas that are related, not spices and tomato sauce. Attached as Exhibit A are thirty registrations showing use of the same mark on teas and spices, but not on tomato sauce. Notably, teas are essentially a type of spice. Both teas and spices are comprised of dead plants. Attached as Exhibit B are definitions from Merriam Webster Dictionary of “tea” and “spice”, showing that both are come from dried leaves of plants or dried plants. Peppermint, chai, ginseng, and cinnamon are all spices and teas. Attached as Exhibit C are webpages showing various companies advertising and selling peppermint, chai, ginseng, and cinnamon teas, as well as other teas derived from a wide variety of spices. Consumers, therefore, are not likely to incorrectly believe that Applicant’s goods emanate from Registrant.

Moreover, in a likelihood of confusion analysis, the relevant inquiry is “not whether people will confuse the marks, but rather whether the marks will confuse people into believing that the goods they identify emanate from the same source.” Paula Payne Prods. Co. v. Johnson’s Pub’g Co., Inc., 473 F.2d 901, 902, 177 USPQ 76, 77 (C.C.P.A. 1973). Here, the answer to the relevant inquiry is: No, the marks will not confuse people into thinking the goods they identify emanate from the same source.

If, as is the case here, the goods in question are not related or marketed in such a way that they would be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source, then, even if the marks are identical, confusion is not likely. Quartz Radiation Corp. v. Comm/Scope Co., 1 USPQ2d 1668, 1669

(TTAB 1986) (holding QR for coaxial cable and QR for various apparatus used in connection with photocopying, drafting, and blueprint machines not likely to cause confusion because of the differences between the parties' respective goods in terms of their nature and purpose, how they are promoted, and who they are purchased by); see also In re Sears, Roebuck and Co., 2 USPQ2d 1312 (TTAB 1987) (finding that CROSS-OVER for brassieres is not confusingly similar to CROSSOVER for women's sportswear even though the goods are "all clothing items that may be sold through the same outlets to the same classes of purchasers, and may well be purchased during the same shopping trip, quite possibly to be worn together"); In re Sydel Lingerie Co., 197 USPQ 629, 630 (TTAB 1977) (holding BOTTOMS UP for women's and children's underwear and BOTTOMS UP for men's clothing not likely to cause confusion). In In re Palm Beach Inc., the Board held that the mark ADLER (stylized) as used on men's pants is not likely to be confused with ADLER as used on socks because "pants and knitted socks are specifically different items of clothing which are normally displayed in different sections of the stores in which they are sold". 225 U.S.P.Q 785 (TTAB 1985).

The respective goods at issue here are not related or marketed in such a way that they would be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source. Spices and tomato sauce are significantly less related than the brassieres and women's sportswear in In re Sears, Roebuck and Co. and the women's children's underwear and the men's clothing in In re Sydel Lingerie Co. Here, spices and tomato sauce frequently are sold in different stores and, even when they are sold in the same stores, they are sold in different parts of the store. Spices are typically found in the baking aisle, alongside sugar, flour, cocoa powder, cake and brownie mixes, etc. Tomato sauce is not found in the baking aisle; rather, it usually is located in an aisle with pasta and, frequently, a variety of other pre-packaged and prepared foods. Like the pants and knitted socks in In re Palm Beach, spices and tomato sauce "are specifically different items . . . which are normally displayed in different sections of the stores in which they are sold." 225 U.S.P.Q 785 (TTAB 1985). Thus, use of the same or similar mark on tomato sauce and spices is not likely to cause confusion.

Additionally, like the coaxial cable and apparatus used in connection with photocopying, drafting and blueprint machines in Quartz Radiation Corp. v. Comm/Scope Co., spices and tomato sauce differ in their nature and purpose and in who purchases them. Tomato sauce is a pre-packaged product purchased by consumers who do not wish to prepare their own food. Spices, on the other hand, are purchased solely by consumers who intend to prepare their own meals. The purposes of each of the goods at issue are sufficiently distinct such that they are not related and consumers would not expect that they originate from the same source.

For the foregoing reasons, Applicant respectfully submits that there is no likelihood of confusion and that its mark should proceed to registration

Petition To Revive For Office Action
To the Commissioner for Trademarks:

Application serial no. 85834185 has been amended as follows:

PETITION

Petition Statement

Applicant has firsthand knowledge that the failure to respond to the Office Action by the specified deadline was unintentional, and requests the USPTO to revive the abandoned application.

RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

ARGUMENT(S)

In response to the substantive refusal(s), please note the following:

Applicant hereby responds to the Final Office Action dated September 24, 2013 in connection with this application. In the Final Office Action, the Trademark Attorney refused registration on the grounds that a likelihood of confusion exists pursuant to Section 2(d) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1052(d) with regard to the mark in U.S. Registration No. 2556834. Applicant respectfully traverses the refusal to register based on §2(d) of the Trademark Act and, based on the arguments and new evidence submitted herein, requests reconsideration. Applicant is filing a Notice of Appeal concurrently with this response.

Applicant's mark is MEXICO LINDO for "spices". The cited mark is MEXICO LINDO for "tomato sauce". The goods sold by Applicant and Registrant are sufficiently different such that confusion is unlikely.

The Trademark Office has already recognized that there is no likelihood of confusion here. Applicant is the owner of Registration No. 2685887 for “teas, flavored ices, and candies” (the “Prior Registration”). The Prior Registration was issued in February 2003, after the registration for the cited mark issued. Although the Trademark Office initially rejected registration of the Prior Registration on 2(d) grounds, it later withdrew its refusal after Applicant cited cases showing that “teas, flavored ices, and candies” and “tomato sauce” are not marketed in such a way that they are likely to be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source. That same reasoning applies here.

In fact, to the extent any goods are related, it is spices and teas that are related, not spices and tomato sauce. Attached as Exhibit A are thirty registrations showing use of the same mark on teas and spices, but not on tomato sauce. Notably, teas are essentially a type of spice. Both teas and spices are comprised of dead plants. Attached as Exhibit B are definitions from Merriam Webster Dictionary of “tea” and “spice”, showing that both are come from dried leaves of plants or dried plants. Peppermint, chai, ginseng, and cinnamon are all spices and teas. Attached as Exhibit C are webpages showing various companies advertising and selling peppermint, chai, ginseng, and cinnamon teas, as well as other teas derived from a wide variety of spices. Consumers, therefore, are not likely to incorrectly believe that Applicant’s goods emanate from Registrant.

Moreover, in a likelihood of confusion analysis, the relevant inquiry is “not whether people will confuse the marks, but rather whether the marks will confuse people into believing that the goods they identify emanate from the same source.” Paula Payne Prods. Co. v. Johnson’s Pub’g Co., Inc., 473 F.2d 901, 902, 177 USPQ 76, 77 (C.C.P.A. 1973). Here, the answer to the relevant inquiry is: No, the marks will not confuse people into thinking the goods they identify emanate from the same source.

If, as is the case here, the goods in question are not related or marketed in such a way that they would be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source, then, even if the marks are identical, confusion is not likely. Quartz Radiation Corp. v. Comm/Scope Co., 1 USPQ2d 1668, 1669 (TTAB 1986) (holding QR for coaxial cable and QR for various apparatus used in connection with photocopying, drafting, and blueprint machines not likely to cause confusion because of the differences between the parties' respective goods in terms of their nature and purpose, how they are promoted, and who they are purchased by); see also In re Sears, Roebuck and Co., 2 USPQ2d 1312 (TTAB 1987) (finding that CROSS-OVER for brassieres is not confusingly similar to CROSSOVER for women's sportswear even though the goods are "all clothing items that may be sold through the same outlets to the same classes of purchasers, and may well be purchased during the same shopping trip, quite possibly to be worn together"); In re Sydel Lingerie Co., 197 USPQ 629, 630 (TTAB 1977) (holding BOTTOMS UP for women's and children's underwear and BOTTOMS UP for men's clothing not likely to cause confusion). In In re Palm Beach Inc., the Board held that the mark ADLER (stylized) as used on men's pants is not likely to be confused with ADLER as used on socks because "pants and knitted socks are specifically different items of clothing which are normally displayed in different sections of the stores in which they are sold". 225 U.S.P.Q 785 (TTAB 1985).

The respective goods at issue here are not related or marketed in such a way that they would be encountered by the same persons in situations that would create the incorrect assumption that they originate from the same source. Spices and tomato sauce are significantly less related than the brassieres and women's sportswear in In re Sears, Roebuck and Co. and the women's children's underwear and the men's clothing in In re Sydel Lingerie Co. Here, spices and tomato sauce frequently are sold in different stores and, even when they are sold in the same stores, they are sold in different parts of the store. Spices are typically found in the baking aisle, alongside sugar, flour, cocoa powder, cake and brownie mixes, etc. Tomato sauce is not found in the baking aisle; rather, it usually is located in an aisle with pasta and, frequently, a variety of other pre-packaged and prepared foods. Like the pants and knitted socks in In re Palm Beach, spices and tomato sauce "are specifically different items . . . which are normally displayed in different sections of the stores in which they are sold." 225 U.S.P.Q 785 (TTAB 1985). Thus, use of the same or similar mark on tomato sauce and spices is not likely to cause confusion.

Additionally, like the coaxial cable and apparatus used in connection with photocopying, drafting and blueprint machines in Quartz Radiation Corp. v. Comm/Scope Co., spices and tomato sauce differ in their nature and purpose and in who purchases them. Tomato sauce is a pre-packaged product purchased by consumers who do not wish to prepare their own food. Spices, on the other hand, are purchased solely by consumers who intend to prepare their own meals. The purposes of each of the goods at issue are sufficiently distinct such that they are not related and consumers would not expect that they originate from the same source.

For the foregoing reasons, Applicant respectfully submits that there is no likelihood of confusion and that its mark should proceed to registration

EVIDENCE

Evidence in the nature of Attached as Exhibit A are thirty registrations showing use of the same mark on teas and spices, but not on tomato sauce. Attached as Exhibit B are definitions from Merriam Webster Dictionary of "tea" and "spice", showing that both are come from dried leaves of plants or dried plants. Attached as Exhibit C are webpages showing various companies advertising and selling peppermint, chai, ginseng, and cinnamon teas, as well as other teas derived from a wide variety of spices. has been attached.

Description of Mark The color(s) brown, gold and burgundy is/are claimed as a feature of the mark. The mark consists of burgundy circle as the base of the whole logo. Two gold letter "K's" placed back-to-back at the center of the logo with a brown coffee bean shape outlined in gold placed at the top center of the two letter "K's" and topped with a five-pointed gold crown. Below the "K's" are the words: "est. 1981" in gold and below this are the words: " the birthplace of coffee..." in gold. The central area containing all of these elements is outlined by a circular gold outline that touches the stylized arms and legs of the two "K's". Around this circular gold outline are the words: "KAFFA KINGDOM" curved around the top half of the gold outline. Around the bottom half are the words: "COFFEE TEA SPICES" separated by two gold dots between "COFFEE" and "TEA", and between "TEA" and "SPICES". The words on the top half and bottom half of this part of the logo are separated by an eight-point gold star on each side (between "KAFFA" and "COFFEE" on the left side and between "KINGDOM" and "SPICES" on the right side. All of this is further outlined by another gold circle outline that is slightly thinner than the first central circular outline. There is a thin circular outline of burgundy that remains around the perimeter of the logo. All the words are colored gold.

Description of Mark The color(s) red, gold, gray, tan, blue, white, brown, silver, peach and green is/are claimed as a feature of the mark. The mark consists of a circle consisting of a gold rim with a red stylized flower internal border, next to a very thin black border, containing the stylized image of a person with peach skin, gold and red attire, holding 2 red lotus flowers, with red lips and black features, wearing a gold and red crown, with a gold rim in the background around the person's head. The person appears to be sitting in a red lotus flower that is floating on blue water, surrounded by small green flowers in the water. There is an image of a gold vase structure floating on a green lily pad. The lid is green. Emerging next to the arms on either side of the person are 2 gray elephant heads, with tan tusks, both elephants are holding red flowers in their trunks. Below the circle is the white stylized word "MAHALAKSHMI" above the gold stylized word "BRAND". There are tan, brown and silver designs emerging from the image of the person, falling next to the wording below. The background of the mark is mostly red, forming from below the circle, and encompassing the words below. The entire image is outlined in a white and red border.

 There is a Quranic verse that refers to the word "spice" as husband and wife. The quotation is thus: The lawful act which is nevertheless the most hateful thing to God is divorce between "spice". When I asked what spice was in the quotation, a scholar told me that spice is husband and wife. But the definition does not seem so in all the dictionaries I have checked.

 Why did I search? To see if Tea's etymology has anything to do with Tisane. Tea loosely is a infusion of herbage, and, specifically, of the Tea plant (Camellia sinensis). For some reason, Tisanes are non-caffeine infusions it appears, leaving Tea proper, Coffee, and a few others... It's late and I'm wondering the net...

 A friend of mine said that if you didn't use tea leaves to make tea, then you couldn't call it tea. I just proved him wrong.

This healthy and harmonious herbal tea is a blend of peppermint, ginseng, cinnamon, echinacea, sarsaparilla, licorice, and our Organic South African Rooibos. The cooling peppermint and warm cinnamon notes pair perfectly with the sweet, soothing finish provided by the other herbs. This special blend is sure to take a chunk out of any cold or flu and is the ideal way to stimulate your immune system in a delightfully tasty manner. Delightful iced as well with a slice of lemon.

What more can be said about this tea, than it is the embodiment of the seven seas? With each sip it is as if a cool sea breeze rushes into your body opening up your nasal passages and opening the pathway into your soul, soothing your mind from the stress of the day and melting worries into the calm, glass like surface of the seven seas.
